Some revelations!

It isn't easy, ask any teacher what it is like teaching their own children and they will tell you!

We are at a distinct advantage here...a building purpose built for teaching and learning, a minimum of four years at university studying how to do this, a teacher - relationship with the children, peer pressure (that has positive effects!) and an expectation that the reason for being here is to learn.

We are impressed by the work the students are submitting. We love the photos of the children in their home learning environments. We love the videos of PE sessions. We especially love the photos of grown-ups getting involved in the tasks! Thank you to everyone for doing such a great job!

Personal Best!

It is important to remember that we all learn at different rates and we all shine at different things. I am a great reader but...unlike at least one of our Grade 6 boys here...I can't weld! At Alexandra Primary School we make an effort to get to know each child and develop a full picture of their potential. That is why the Outdoor Education Program, open ended tasks, group tasks, mountain bike program, and leadership opportunities are so important to us, they give each child the opportunities to develop in areas that are important to them.

The best measure of success is how much you have grown. We are blown away when we flick through children's work and see their growth.

It is important to see what makes us all the same.

It is equally important for us to value what is different and unique about every one of us.

Friday Catch-up Day

We are wary of the pressures some families are under, particularly those working from home and guiding their children's learning at the same time. In response to this, there will be no new work posted on Fridays.

Students will need to do their spelling and we encourage reading every day, but other than that, catch up on any work you did not finish or need to resubmit or get away from your screens.

Teachers will also use this day for catching-up on feedback and ensuring that all students have their questions answered.

Friday is a great opportunity to get outside, play a board game, do some gardening or build something amazing out of Lego (feel free to send us a photo of that!).

Paper Pack work

Please drop off completed work when you collect your new pack. Teachers judge engagement by what work is returned.

Take care and happy learning!

REMOTE LEARNING FAMILY SUPER HEROES!

The Forden Family

Amber, Owen and the Forden family are kicking learning goals! Amber returns her paper pack each week and Owen is fully engaged in his online tasks. Well done Jacque and Nick! We are proud to have you in our online learning community. Forden family...you are STARS!
